But and clear throughout the day. Wednesday any vague hopes in this direction have 29th, commenced with fine clear weather | been effectually crushed by a perusal and light winds; had light winds from the of his speech. Mr Burlingame stands forth as the apostle of a doctrine which is as novel as audacious. The civilization of China is to be achieved by a process analogous to the incubation of the Ostrich's egg, which, buried in the sand, is some day to arise as a perfect chick fine and clear; continued fine to the end of | from the surrounding desert, which to the far distant horizon is guileless of rivals or companions. China is to be "left alone" until she develops her own resources free of external aid. This, presented as the basis of negociation, mixed up with a reasonable amount of abuse of other no tionalities, including those through whose operations Mr Burlingame was enabled to reside at Peking, and by whose forces the very locations occupied by American traders were wrung from the Chinese is announced as the "progress" which Mr B. is sent forth to champion. An appointment which requires its holder to seriously maintain such a thesis is of course likely to be a long one, and R8: regards the gentleman who holds it, we know that its meaning is simply-Dollars; dollars for Mr Burlingame, and a bountiful increase of dollars for the gentlemen attached in various ornamental capacities to the universal Embassy. But this fact was left to be divined by the New York audience; though there 18 little doubt that a full knowledge of the pecuniary haul made by their country man would only enhance the admiration with which he has been hailed in all parts of the United States. FRENCH LITERATURE. -- The debate which took place in the Corps Legislatif on Monday proves the folly of preliminary interference on the part of the Government. M Jules Simon attacked the commission for hawking publications which he would like to see done away with; the complaints against the commission are that it often stamps impure works and prevents the circulation of chefs d'œuvres by refusing its anthorization, that its decisions are often based on political grounds, and that it is unfair to subject the first writers in France to the judgment of an irresponsible board. The commission can only prevent a book from being hawked and sold at a railway station, whilst it may be had at a library close by. Under the operation of the prestamp had been refused to Victor Hugo. Jules Janin, and Jules Claretie, it had been accorded to such ribald publications as the "Catéchisme des Farceurs," and quantities of indecent and superstitious pamphlets. The excuse made on the part of the commission gives one but a poor idea of the natural tendency of the French mind. appears from a report made in 1853 that the circulation of books, pamphlets, and ulmanacs, amounted to 9,000,000 copies. and of these 8,000,000 were unfit for pubication. The circulation of these works being now over 30,000,000, it would, it is said, be odd if the commission, who could not possibly read every work through, did not now and again let slip an objectionable production. The institution was defended by M. Picard, and at the close of the sitting M. Rouher rose, and, in his usual style, accused the opposition of wishing to defile the country with shameful publications. Directly this grossly unjust accusation was lunched, M. Rouher sat down. and the majority as usual demanded the close of the debate. Company. Tis true, it is only an old friend under a new name. Messrs Trantmann and Co.'s steamers Nanzing and Ying-tze-fei belong henceforward to a "North-China Steamer Company" and are to have other three companions, so soon as these can be procured. The new Company is to have a capital of Tls. 300,000 in shares of Tls. 500 each; and is to purchase the two steamers just named, for Tls. 75,000 and Tls. 60,000 respectively; the latter's wharf property, subject to an annual rental of Tls. 1,800, being also bought for Tls. 30,000. That firm is still to manage the business of the Company, on much the same terms, apparently, that Messrs Russell and Co. manage the S. S. N. They are to receive 5 per cent on increased freight, and 25 per cent commission on steamers built or purchased; providing necessary office premises and staff. Calculating from the net profits of the two steamers, last year, it is hoped to pay a dividend of 34 per cent besides returning 10 per cent on freight to contributing shareholders. The predictions of a prospectus are not always realised: and may possibly not be so in this instance. But though the new Company may not pay 34 per cent, it has every chance of doing extremely well. It is not starting a new line, with the task of creating a new traffic. statement made by Mr J. A. He opined that they "had lost all respect for their but everything seems to portend that the earliest to the latest system of transport

FRENCH LITERATURE .-- The debate which took place in the Corps Legislatif on Monday proves the folly of preliminary interference on the part of the Government. M. Jules Simon attacked the commission for hawking publications which he would like to see done away with; the complaints against the commission are that it often stamps impure works and prevents the circulation of chefs d'œuvres by refusing its authorization, that its decisions are often based on political grounds, and that it is unfair to subject the first writers in France to the judgment of an irresponsible board. The commission can only prevent a book from being hawked and sold at a railway station, whilst it may be had at a library close by. Under the operation of the present law M. Simon showed that whilst the stamp had been refused to Victor Hugo, Jules Janin, and Jules Claretie, it had been accorded to such ribald publications as the "Catéchisme des Forceurs," and quantities of indecent and superstitious pamphlets. The excuse made on the part of the commission gives one but a poor idea of the natural tendency of the French mind. It appears from a report made in 1853 that he circulation of books, pamphlets, and almanacs, amounted to 9,000,000 copies and of these 8,000,000 were unfit for publication. The circulation of these works being now over 30,000,000, it would, it is said, be odd if the commission, who could not possibly read every work through, did not now and again let slip an objectionable by M. Picard, and at the close of the sit defile the country with shameful publications. Directly this grossly unjust accusation was lunched, M. Rouher sat down. and the majority as usual demanded the close of the debate. In any place not prelending to be a grave assembly, what depravity. M. Pelletan accused the Em-

The author in his Preface says :- "The tables in Chap. VIL, for estimating prices, measurement of goods, exchanges, &c. have been selected from those constantly in use among the foreign merchants in China. Those for calculating the prices of tes in dollars or pence have been copied from the more extended tables, by the kind permission of the author, P. Loureiro, Esq. The last section of the same chapter, on "Movements in Bullion," has been prepared and furnished for the Guide by Patrick R. Harper, Esq., of the Commercial Bank of India at Hongkong, who has had much experience in the exchanges and movements of the precious metals in Eastern Asia.

"The Appendix of Sailing Directions has been reprinted from the China Pilot." With short interruptions, the coasts from Singapore to Hakodadi are all described in t : and for the Chinese coasts, the Directions have been improved by the insertion of the Chinese characters for the names of all places that could be ascertained."
